LIONS HEAR HUGH BROWN IN WARM TRIBUTE TO SCOTCH POET, BURNS

NEVADA CITY: Guest speaker last night at the regular Lions meeting at the Deer Creek Inn was Hugh Brown, Grass Valley Rotary member and well-known public accountant. Brown's topic was "Robert Burns." President Harry Clayton appointed Lambert Thomas program chairman for next Wednesday's meeting and Harold Deeter for the following meeting..

International Counsellor L. R. (Bob) Jefford commimented the new group on the quality of their organizanition and Pianist Mrs. LeRoy Kitts on the excellence of her music.

Brown, in the slightly modified Scotch brogue which is his customary idiom, spoke warmly of the greatness of the Scottish national poet. In moving terms, he described the beauty of Ayreshire, Burns' birthplace. He compared the poet to his contemporary, Pitts, the great British statesman. Nowadays, he said, Pitts fame is confined primarily to students, while Burns' renown is as bright as ever, and greater than in his own life time..

Brown quoted from Burns' poems, Tam O Shanter, For a That, To a Daisy and To a Mouse. The great Scotchman, he said, was typical of the race in that he was a man of many moods, which varied from deep religion to biting sarcasm. The Bard's intemperance with regards to spirits, said Brown, was much exaggerated. His original biographer was a teetotaler named Dr. Curry, and hence not sufficiently broad-gauged to understand the great man. The address on the poet was interspersed with revealing comments on Scotch national character.

L.. R. Jefford, in informal remarks at the meeting's conclusion, related how his wife had served as "temporary pianist" of the Grass Valley Lions Club for 15 years..

FORESTERS SURVEY SNOW

SODA SPRINGS: A group of Tahoe National Forest officers, jubilant over the new fallen snow, made the first snow survey trip of the year into Huysink Lake at the headwaters of the American River recently. A clear blue sky, warm weather, and new snow made conditions almost ideal for cross country skiing..

The snowfall of the past week increased to a large extent, the volume of water stored as snow in the mountains. While conditions are still below normal, it is expected that the months of February, March, and April will contribute a large amount of water for use next spring, and summer. Measurements taken on the trip showed an average of 61 inches of snow with a water content of 16½ inches. Last year at this time there was 100 inches of snow with a water content of 47 inches.

Accompanying Ranger Max Williamson, who was in charge of the party, were the following personnel of the Tahoe National Forest: Supervisor Guerdon Ellis; Robert E. Dasman, forest resource manager, Marvin Shock, forest engineer; Ralph C. Preece, fire control assistant and George D. Darcey, dispatcher..

Robie, in the address fo the evening, touched on many interesting and revealing points of California history. He quoted an item about Lola Montez, written in the Grass Valley Telegraph of 1852, in which the gay actress was described as having recently assaulted the editor of that paper.

The Pony Express system of carrying news, Robie related, was originated in California. It's original purpose was the rapid transmittal of election news. An election rider made the horseback trip from Auburn to Sacramento (in 1853) in the short time of an hour and fifty minutes.

About the same time, an Adams and Company courier rode 75 miles from Nevada City to Sacramento in four hours and twenty minutes. Frank Ryan, a noted early day horseman, once rode his famous horse, Colonel 20 miles in 55 minutes. Express messengers were highly respected citizens in that era—occasionall receiving such tokens of esteem as golden spurs.

The greatest horseback feat on record, according to Robie, was the ride in August, 1854, by Felix X. Aubrey, who made the distance from Santa Fe to Independence (950 miles) in 62 hours. Aubrey averaged 15 and a third miles an hour and 364 miles per day. He boasted, on his arrival, that he could do it again in 58 hours, but he was slain in a barroom knife and gun contest before he could try again.

A large portion of Rochi's address was devoted to excerpts from the letters of Charles Tuttle, pioneer California inn-keeper and lawyer. Tuttle, founder of the well-known Auburn and Sacramento Tuttle family, was a graduate of Amherst College who came west to seek quick fortune in order that he might support his wife, daughter of a wealthy family, in the style to which she was accustomed.

He first settled in a locality known as North Fork, where "the stream was alive with men digging gold" and miners were netting from 1 to

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

The march of time consigns most men to historical oblivion. Not so with Abraham Lincoln. Instead of his life and work growing more obscure as one year after another widens the gap between his day and ours, they acquire increased recognition for their excellence of quality and their value to this nation and to humanity.

Today Lincoln stands on the horizon of history as one of the most compelling figures who ever trod this planet. He symbolizes the principles upon which America is built—the equality of all men: the indivicibility of the Union; the opportunity for the lowliest of birth to achieve the highest of honors; ardent support of the right, firm resistance to the wrong, but with patience and tolerance to those who sincerely hold different views..

It was Lincoln's earthiness, his humility, his gentle humor,, his ability to maintain the common touch while dealing with uncommon problems—these were the things which endeared him to the masses of his time. These are the things that still endear him to the masses of our day. He was a great man in great things, but he was also great in little things.

On this 138th anniversary of his birth the people of America pay tribute to his greatness and rededicate themselves to the ideals and principles whose cause he so courageously championed, and so notably advanced.—Contributed..

DORIS FOLEY'S BROTHER DIES

NEVADA CITY: Mrs. Doris Foley, newly elected president of the Nevada County Historical Society, during the dinner Monday evening at which she was installed in office, received a message stating that her brother, Bruce Irving Nightingale, had died suddenly of a heart attack while enroute from Winnemucca, to Reno, Nevada..

Nightingale was district engineer for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company. His district included Nevada and the area around Lake Tahoe.

The deceased leaves his wife Mrs. Dorothy Nightingale, and three young children. He was born in Oakland 48 years ago, was a graduate of Oakland Technical high school and the University of California. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge in Chico. His late father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Nightingale were pioneer settlers in El Dorado County.

Even the owls are coming to California. Two tiny elf owls 2 1-2 inches tall, have been found by a University of California professor in the Joshua Tree national monument, the farthest west this species has ever been recorded.

The Northern Pacific Railroad, linking Oregon to the east, was completed in 1883.

UPSET STOMACHS YIELD INCHES OF GAS AND BLOAT

"I was so full of gas I was afraid I'd burst. Sour, bitter substance rose up in my throat from my unset stomach after meals. I got KAL-O-DEX, and it worked inches of gas and bloat from me. Waistline is way down now. Meals are a pleasure. I praise Kal-O-Dex to the sky."—This is an actual testimonial from a man living right here in this vicinity.

KAL-O-DEX is a proven formula containing medicinal juices from 5 Great Herbs: these herbs cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, acts on sluggish intestines and as a diuretic on kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering—get KAL-O-DEX. Sold by all stores here in Nevada City.—Adv.

BROAD STREET

By Harley M. Leete, Jr.

A well known man obtu town who has accumulated a lot of property and prosperit told me his formuli for success the other day. "My father told me when I was a young fellow just starting out," he said, "to always save half what I made. "It took a lot of self-denial, but I've done it, and it's paid off." Well, there you are chums, you always wanted to get rich. The formula is right in your hand. For breakfast eat half a grapefruit, half an egg and half a piece of tosst. Only use half the burners on your stove.. Put on one stocking, one shoe, better wear a whole pair of pjants, no shirt (save it) and go to work. Only drive your car half way. Walk the rest. Close off or rent half your house. See what I mean, you're already cut your expenses in two. When you go to a movie only pay half price and come out in the middle of the feature. If you feel like a beer, get someone to go in on it with you.

I can see you're way ahead of me now. You're trading in your sedan for a motorcycle. You only use toothpaste on your upper molars one day and on the lower the next. Your bread is half-baked. You always go of half-cocked. Your home is known as Half-Way-House. Your sons will all be half-backs. You send out your mail open, with one and a half cent stamps. Intsead of dollars you use four bit pieces. Every other fifty cents goes into the old stocking, sock, that is. But I'm looking into my crystal ball and I ssee how it all ends. You get carried away. You go too far. One day you're discovered looking stone cold dead in the market. Deader than forty million barrels of owl skeletons. But the doctor examines you. He puts the stethescope on your chest and listens intently. He looks up at the hushed vrowd gathered around. He mostens his lips. "This man is only half-dead", he announces solemnly. And that's just what you will have been all the time.

I've only half-covered that subject but as long as Gentle Reade is complaining of being half-dead from boredom, shall we pass to Topic Two for today? Topic Two is my usual problem. What is the Future of Nevada City? Lumbering will last one year. Lumber will last two years. Five years. It is good or Many Years to Come.. The lumber up here is terrible. It is not bad. It is going out of demand. It will be in demand as long as the housing shortage lasts. Gold mining is all through. The price of gold is liable to be raised to $52 at any time. There is practicall no mining going on here now. There is more mining here than people think. Business is terrible. Business is surprisingly good for this time o year. There is no payroll here. Nobody has any money. They keep coming in here with orders, here dots it all come from? Confused?

Shake hands with an identical twin, brother.

Am I wrong in my observation that in the singing at the Historical Society banquet the other night, an extra enthusiastic note was sounded by Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Clark when they came to the words "And this miner, forty-niner and his daughter, Clementine, went to BLOOMFIELD, excacting for mine?" And did you know that Thomas Coan, the youthful mayor of Indian Flat, was a yodler, ne plus ultra, par excellence, and full of pep?

Richardson's bay is named for the founder of Yerba Buena.

POST HOLIDAY NOTES

Some sections of the United States have experienced constant rainfall instead of snow this winter. Unfortunately, however, no one ever thinks of giving a surfboard instead of skis for Christmas.

Just a week or two more and the last of those awful Christmas ties will have vanished from around the embarrassed male neck.

The youngsters in college came home for the holidays—but they didn't stay there.

Just because the weatherman failed to give a lot of folk throughout the country a white Christmas is no reason why he should try to make up for that oversight now.

The man at the next desk reports he has not yet been able to untrim his Christmas tree. He simply cannot find where the string of lights begins or ends.

Parent Problems

A Child's Spending Money

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

THE CHILD who normally can earn his own spending money may gain an excellent education in the value and use of money. But very few children can have this privilege. Almost none can earn money before the age of ten or twelve.

Oh, yes, the child can be paid for helping about the home, but if he is, how is he to gain a healthy feeling of obligation as a member of the family group? Is he likely then to volunteer to help in many other jobs he is not paid for? Besides, many parents who pay their children for home chores soon find themselves scolding and punishing these children to make them do the very jobs they are paid for. However, should the child, say at ten or fourteen, be striving to save money to buy some long-desired thing, his parents might properly pay him for an irregular or unexpected job occasionally.

A Nine-Year-Old

Here is how one child began an allowance at the age of nine. When school began he was given ten cents a week to do with as he pleased. As he needed money for lunch, bus fare, Sunday school, he was given the money needed. He kept account of these regular expenditures for two weeks. Then he and his mother were able to know what his allowance, including the ten cents to do with as he pleased, should be for the week. Irregular expenditures, as for school supplies, were not at first included, but doled out as needed. A year later they were included.

He understood that for the specified regular expenditures plus luxuries, he would receive no more that week, and that he would have to make it last. From a cardboard box he made bins, one for each school day, one for Sunday school and one for the dime. On receiving his allowance on Mondays, he distributed it in these bins. Some children use envelopes instead.

No Itemized Accounts

This child was not required to keep an itemized account of his expenditures. A few years later he was induced to do so but not with the purpose that his parents would know how he used the money; rather as good business exercise.

If, as so many parents require, the child must show satisfactory accounts before reaching the next week's allowance, this child is tempted to enter false records in order to make his accounts come out right, or to escape censure. By basing the allowance on the budget plan instead, when the allowance is received, temptation to deceive by juggling records is removed.

More Items Included

As this child grew older, more items were included in the allowance, such as movies and school supplies, and the budgeted allowance obviously had to be revised upwards from time to time. Also the "free" or luxury item gradually increased, reaching 25 cents as he entered junior high school.

Out of his do-as-you-please fund he chose to save for special purchases. In his case it was for tools for his work shop.

When this lad reached senior high school, he budgeted his allowance to cover a month, to include many more items, all essential, and a definite amount for "dates." He continued this same sort of monthly budget while in college. My special bulletin. "Allowances," may be had in a stamped envelope.

Jesus the Giver of Life

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—John 4:43-5:47; 11:1-12:11.

By Alfred J. Buescher

When Jesus went to Galilee, a certain nobleman came to Him asking Him to go home with him and cure his son who was about to die. Jesus told him to go home; his son would live.

When the nobleman neared his home, his servants met him, telling him his son's fever had left him, and when he inquired he found that it left at the time Jesus had said, "Thy son liveth."

At Jerusalem, Jesus visited the pool of Bethesda, where sick people lay around waiting to step in the healing water. A man sick for years was told by Jesus to rise and walk, and he did so.

Jesus heard that His friend, Lazarus, was ill, and later that he had died. Jesus went to the tomb, told Lazarus to come forth; and he came out from his tomb.

Inside WASHINGTON

Lord Inverchapel Recalls His Early Days in U. S.

Truman Pre-'48 Strategy May Put GOP on the Spot

Special to Central Press

● WASHINGTON—Lord Inverchapel, the British ambassador, has no intention of returning to England before midsummer, at least. He is too busy reliving some of the times he enjoyed when, as a young embassy clerk, he previously served in Washington. Chatting a few days ago, he appeared anxious to visit Florida and several other places.

But uppermost in his mind is the thought of spring and watching the flowers he personally planted come to bloom. Then he wants to go to New England.

Inverchapel

"I used to shoot whitetailed deer," he said. "I don't mind that, but I couldn't shoot a bear. It made my guide angry, for it was a beautiful bear. He was sitting there munching blueberries and I hadn't the heart."

He prefers, also, New England's hardwood trees as "far better than those eternal Christmas trees they have in the west."

The envoy's memory of good sport is to take a canoe to Harper's Ferry, toss it in the water and shoot the rapids down to Great Falls, just out of Washington.

"You can make it nicely in a weekend," he said. "Start Saturday afternoon and you are back in Washington Monday morning. But be sure to have at least an 18-foot canoe or you are liable to nose under in stiff rapids."

* * * *

● POLITICAL OBSERVERS ARE WATCHING President Truman closely for signs that his pre-1948 strategy might take the form of putting the Republicans on the spot by forcing them to make important decisions which they may be reluctant to make.

They noted that his termination of hostilities had all the earmarks of forcing the GOP to commit itself on several essential points—farm support prices, excise taxes and the Smith-Conally act. In his state of the union message, observers saw his references to demands for a balanced budget and debt-reduction in the face of Republican requests for lower income taxes.

Some observers think Mr. Truman will steer a middle course, waiting for the Republicans to make mistakes before he takes a stand for 1948.

* * * *

● FORMER REP. ROGER C. SLAUGHTER (D) of Missouri who was "purged" by President Truman last year, may accompany the House surplus property committee overseas as special counsel.

Sources close to the committee declared that Slaughter, who acted as committee chairman last year, would probably be asked to make the trip—after the adjournment of Congress this summer.

The Missourian, who aroused the president's ire by voting against administration legislation, has returned to his law practice in Kansas City. It was not known whether he would accept the committee's invitation.

The committee, which is being reconstituted under the chairmanship of Rep. Lewis Rizley (R) of Oklahoma, is expected to concentrate this year on the disposal of billions of dollars in surplus property overseas.

* * * *

● DIPLOMATS HOUSED in the State Department building just across a narrow tree-lined street from the White House should be emersed in the problems of international policy. But about the corridors, talk centers rather on the removal of the oldest department of the government to Washington's "foggy bottom."

The die appears cast that most of them will move, including Secretary George C. Marshal and his aides.

State Chiefs May Leave Old Quarters

President Truman says he wants the secretary of state to stay where he is, but White House moves make it impossible.

Mr. Truman has placed many special agencies in the State Department building, such as the Budget Bureau and the Atomic Energy Commission. Recently he has also ordered the offices of John Steelman, "assistant president," to be located there.

Newsmen are disturbed about giving up the lush, carpeted, soundproofed press room, built for them by former Secretary Stettinius.

As one budget bureau inspector said on seeing the room, "All it lacks is a bar."

MAKE FAREWELL TRIP ON BUS TOP

MANHATTAN SIGHTSEERS and moon-struck summer lovers will never again see Fifth Avenue and the Hudson River from the top of a double-deck bus. As the last one, shown above, left historic Washington Square, a few hardy romantics defied the wintry weather and set forth on the final trip. Note that some carry umbrellas. (International)

A NUTTY BET—BUT HE FACES IT

SO CERTAIN was James C. Bradley, Detroit, Mich., that an expected baby would be a boy that he made a nutty bet. It was agreed that, if he guessed wrong, he would use his nose as a jet-propulsion device for a walnut for an entire city block. Well—it was a girl and Bradley is shown cheerfully facing the dire consequences. (International)

BIG GAME HUNTING IS BIG BUSINESS

SAN FRANCISCO: The average hunter of big game in California spends about $575 a year for his hunting and fishing according to a recent poll by the U. S. Forest Service.

This conclusion was determined by analyzing several hundred return post cards from sportsmen selected at random from the registers of deer hunters in the national forests in California during 1946.

Mr. Average Deer Hunter reports spending $270 a year for ammunition, boat rental, guides and pack stock, club dues, food, meals, lodging, liquor, field clothes, etc. In addition, he travels 2235 miles, which at a cost of 5c per mile, would total $112. He invests $504 in guns, camping equipment, and fishing tackle. If this equipment lasts an average of seven years, he would be investing $72 per year—making his total annual bill $454.

The statistics reveal that the average deer hunter in the national forests is a versatile sportsman. He reports spending 14 days annually on his big game hunts, 4 1-2 days hunting pheasants, and quail, 3 3-4 days hunting ducks and geese, and more than 10 days fishing. He is also an extensive traveler, governing 1087 miles for big game, 314 miles for pheasant and quail, 270 miles for ducks and geese, and 564 miles for fishing..

Although final figures are not yet available for the number of big game hunters in California last year, a recent estimate set 270,000 as a reasonable total. On the basis of $454 for annual expenses, the actual expenditures by this class of hunter approach $125,000,000, which places this form of recreation definitely in the category of big business. And to enjoy their favorite sport the same deer hunters report average wage losses of $119 while hunting and fishing..

WITH YOUR ASSEMBLYMAN SCOOP THURMAN AT THE STATE CAPITOL

This week may see the state legislature adjourned for the constitutional recess without doing much on the proposed highway legislation. In the lower house a majority of the members desire to postpone action on the highway program until they have had an opportunity to talk to their constituents at home during the recess.

During the past week several hundred bills have been introduced in both houses and it now appears that the total number of bills will be as heavy as were put across the desk during the season two years ago.

SCHOOL KIDS ON BUSES

The writer recently introduced legislation which will permit high schools to transport student rooters in school buses as well as football and other athletic teams to various playing fields. Under the present law only players may be transported in shool buses. Among the letters asking that we introduce such legislation was one from a person who wrote that she felt her children would be safer if they were allowed to ride in school buses than if they

We hope that the sportsmen of the other nine counties including Placer county, will let us have their views.

Lem's Dogs vs Thad's Chickens

Running a newspaper, you get to know a lot about human nature.

Thad Phipps was in the other day, all burned up. Wanted me to run an item on how Lem Martin's dog had raided his chickens again, and ought to be put away by law.

I told him: "Lem was in on Saturday. Said you shouldn't be allowed to keep those chickens so close to his house—and in a residential zone, at that."

Thad shuts up right pronto then. And that very evening I see him making his peace with Lem at Andy Botkin's Garden Tavern—over a friendly glass of beer.

From where I sit, anyone can find something in his neighbor to complain about. (Some folks may even disagree with Thad's right to enjoy that glass of beer with Lem!) But where would we be if everybody tried to have a law passed against everything they disagreed with? We wouldn't have many neighbors left!

G. V. MAN OFFERS AUBURN FREE GARBAGE CANS

AUBURN: The Auburn city council is taking into consideration an offer made by a Grass Valley man to install streamlined refuse cans on the sidewalks of Auburn absolutely free of any cost to the city.

The cans would become the property of the city immediately upon installation, but their upkeep would be maintained for a period of five years solely by Wes Emerson, the man seeking the franchise. Emerson would seek a return on his investment by selling advertising space on the cans to local merchants.

As an inducement for councilmen to give the proposal careful study, Emerson prevailed upon H. E. Stewart, mayor of Reno, to write Mayor W. H. Boswell and local councilmen a letter in which Stewart pointed out certain advantages Reno has enjoyed since that city adopted the plan not so long ago. "We find", the Reno mayor said in his letter, "that the citizens of our city are using the refuse cans more and more. The cans have eased the problem of street sweeping."

According to the contract which was read to the council members by Mayor Boswell, the council would designate the location of the refuse cans and see to it that the advertising thereon was in good taste and not adverse to local advertising policy. The council could cancel the contract with Emerson at any time.

Cost of each can, Emerson said, is $40.—Placer Herald.

Reports to Attlee

GENERAL Sir Alan Cunningham, High Commissioner of Palestine, arrives in London by plane for a discussion of possible measures to be taken by the British military forces to suppress current violence in the Holy Land. AUBURN MAY GET RADIO STATION

AUBURN: A $50,000 radio station may be built in Auburn in the near future if present plans are formulated it was larned here this week.

A two acre hilltop at Camp Flint was designated as the site selected and a purchase offer has been made. Councilmen refused to divulge the name of the person or persons making the offer but said that 'the party is well known locally."

Tests have been made at various points in and about Auburn through the use of a portable radio set and the Camp Flint hilltop, which is about one mile south of Auburn proper, was found to be the most suitable.

Camp Flint, containing 38 acres, is the property of the city.

Only outright purchase of the radio station site is being considered by the prospective buyer because the federal communications commission will not otherwise sanction a broadcasting station.

In asking the city to sell, the buyer told councilmen that the city would be guaranteed use of the broadcasting station's aerial tower for its proposed two-way police radio.

Councilmen said that no action would be taken before 30 to 60 days. —Placer Herald.

WET WEATHER SAFETY

Motorists are reminded by the Public Safety Department of National Automobile Club to drive slower at night during wet weather. Bright lights are reflected many times in wet pavements which makes it harder to see other vehicles as well as pedestrians.

CARRY CHAINS

Motorists bound for snow sport areas are warned to carry chains at all times. Recent heavy snows have made all major highways in the mountains impassable without chains.

WATCH SPEED

High school drivers who have a high toll of accidents accredited to their age group are cautioned to keep their speed down and their eyes on the road during wet weather.

Spring Suit

Tunic coat and plaid skirt.

By VERA WINSTON

A USEFUL ADDITION to any wardrobe is the suit that has a nice long tunic coat, one that can team up with different skirts. This suit, for instance, is shown here with a plaid skirt to match the coat trim, but would be just as good with a skirt of navy blue to match the coat, or one of red, the dominant color in the plaid. The three-quarters length navy wool tunic coat buttons down one side with matching square buttons. The adjustable collar and cuffs are of navy, red and white plaided woolen. The skirt buttons at one side from hem to waist.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

For the subject "Spirit" the Golden Text of the Christian Science lesson-sermon for Sunday, February 9, is taken from Zachariah: "This is the word of the Lord unto Zerubbabel, saying, Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts" (4:6:)

The following citations are included in the sermon:

John: "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing" (6:63.)

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus reasoned on this subject practically, and controlled sickness, sin, and death on the basis of his spirituality. Understanding the nothingness of material things, he spoke of flesh and spirit as the two opposites—as error and truth, not contributing in any way to each other's happiness and existence. Jesus knew "it is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing." p. 356.

Christian Science Society of Nevada City holds services every Sunday in their church 114 Boulder St. at 11 o'clock. Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. A Wednesday night testimonial meeting is held on the first Wednesday of each month at 8 o'clock. Our reading room is now located in the church edifice. NEVADA CITY LONG AGO

FLOY MARGARET REYNOLDS

20 YEARS AGO

At a largely attended meeting the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce swung into action on the proposed new post office building. A committee headed by J. R. Ivey and composed of W. H. Martin, S. Lee Leiter, R. A. Eddy and J. W. O'Neill was appointed by chairman Ott to report on available sites. Every owner of a vacant lot in town had been interviewing the committee.

Mills College was to establish a summer camp on fifty acres of land bordering on Lake Vera, north of town. The site had been the property of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. but was being subdivided by W. H. Griffith of this city who put through the deal with the college authorities to a successful conclusion. The section known as the Selby Flat district, in the days of the gold rush had a larger population and polled more votes than did Nevada City. The pioneer descriptive book "Diary of a Forty Niner" centers at that place. It was the scene of one of the most notable and exciting stage robberies and bandit captives. On May 15, 1866 the stage coming from North San Juan to Nevada City was held up and relieved of a Wells Fargo strong box containing $7,900. Sheriff R. B. Gentry was immediately notified and with a posse of five men set out in pursuit. One of the men, Steve Venard, came upon the three bandits, while hunting alone, dropped all three with his Henry rifle, and recovered the stolen money. Venard was greatly honored for his courage. Wells Fargo gave a $3000 reward and presented him with a new Henry rifle, gold mounted and engraved. Selby Flat was also the scene of the murder of Sheriff Dave Douglas. For some time there had been several robberies about this section. Sheriff Douglas set out alone in search of the bandit. He did not return and a day later a party of men who had gone out to look for him came upon his body lying in the brush a short distance from the body of one of the bandits. It was never learned how the two had been killed but it was presumed that Sheriff Douglas, after killing the one bandit, was shot by another hiding in the brush.

A meeting of citizens was held for the purpose of organizing a Nevada City Board of Trade. City Clerk T. H. Carr called the meeting to order and briefly stated the object of the improvement club. Fred Zeitler, superintendent of the Champion Mine was unanimously chosen as temporary chairman and W. F. Engrebright was selected as temporary secretary. The following committee on constitution and by-laws was appointed. J. J. Jackson, George C. Shaw, E. J. Rector, W. H. Martin; George A. Nihell, T. S. Ford, W. F. Englebright, Fred Zeitler, A. B. Mallon, J. J. Jackson, G. A. Nihell and Fred Zeitler was appointed to solicit memberships at $1.00 each. Committees to act and confer with the board of trustees were appointed as follows: Sanitary conditions of the town: H. Murchie, F. E. Dadsworth, F. E. Brown. Streets and roads: A. B. Wolf, W. H. Martin and W. W. Waggoner.

The saloon at the corner of Pine and Commercial Streets for sometime owned by Edwin Tilley and known as "The Mint," was purchased by J. A. Sepaugh of San Jose and was to be known in the future as "The Model."

The city launched a garbage disposal service. A good horse for the purpose was donated by W. G. Richards, the groceryman. A cart was given by County Assessor Martin and a harness was procured from someone else. James Flewellyn was the driver. Residents were urged to place their rubbish at a convenient place beside the esreets so that it could be hauled away.

The Rev. Peter Kinnigsworth of the A. M. E. Church of this city was to preach an anniversary discourse on "The Frailty of Man." Mr. Killingsworth commenced the ministry when a slave.

Fair Play

Sweden does not even approximate the wealth in natural resources of Russia or America, yet her per capita income is far above Russia's and is almost as high as America's. What is the secret of this prosperity? For 20 years I have been trying to find the formula for national prosperity in observing nations all around the world. What is it that gives Sweden—a country the size of Oklahoma and Arkansas, with limited natural resources—an individual prosperity that puts her high in the running?

The people of Sweden are very sturdy, with more than half of them passing the age of 70. The health of the people is remarkable, the personal appearance of the people on the streets excellent. Almost without exception they are neat, clean, and well-dressed. Streets in Swedish cities are unusually clean and in good repair, for apparently all citizens take pride in keeping them that way.

Wholesome Thinking

I found everywhere a spirit of wholesome living and fair play, and I discovered also that these things were based upon the strong religious foundations of the people. During the week I spent in the heart of Sweden's largest city, I saw not a single drunk nor any indications of lewdness, things which are so apparent in the parks of London and New York.

The spirit of fair play and honest competition is manifest in every quarter in Sweden. People count more on it and talk more about it and mean it more sincerely than any people I know. For example, the man who is responsible for running the affairs of Sweden's trade unions wants industrial corporations to make a reasonable profit.

Typical Attitude

He wants to maintain private ownership and management. He wants fair play between labor and industry. He wants wages kept at a level that will assure a market for the greatest volume of goods. He wants cooperative understanding between labor and industry. His attitude, I was told by everyone, is typical of the Swedish labor leader. He shuns Communism or state socialism. He wants individual freedom, not regimentation of people's lives.

Honest-to-goodness fair play, manifested through a spirit of fine cooperation on the part of every group that competes in the game of economics, is the key to the prosperity of this small but great country. The people think of competition—real active competition—as the basis of prosperity. None of them suffer the illusion that state management of industry could provide effective competition or the prosperity equivalent to that of private enterprise.

Floors, But No Ceilings

There is much that we could emulate in Sweden. This fair play and competitive spirit goes right down to the shops and factories, 85% of which are operated on incentive plans based on piecework, or on bonuses paid for certain achievements. There are floors for wages, but no ceilings. This means that those willing to work harder may earn more than the minimum. This rule rightly belongs in our own American traditions, but let us not forget it.

A Swedish labor leader told me: "Piecework is the chief means of increasing production. That's why most of our industries have it. This enables a good worker to earn more than a lazy worker. Our workers all agree to it, so it is a happy situation. We realize that high productivity offers the only means of sustained high wages. I am amazed that people everywhere do not recognize this principle."

WASHINGTON NOTES

VISIT WITH TRUMAN

Recently I had a conference with President Truman, together with three other members of the California delegation, in regard to securing the appointment of State Senator Tom Keating, with whom I served in the California state senate, to the U. S. Maritime Commission. It is a matter of vital importance to California's large shipping industry to secure the appointment of a Californian. The president was very courteous and promised to give careful consideration to Senator Keating's qualifications but otherwise did not commit himself.

A good part of the time in the conference was taken up with the president's views on the California election system permitting candidates to cross file. He is against it—strong.

President Truman appeared in his usual good health and spirits. He is one of the easiest men to talk to I have ever met.

CONGRESSIONAL MAIL

The elimination of most war time agencies has cut down a great deal of the paper work in the average congressional office. In my own office the drop in correspondence relating to department mattters has fallen off better than fifty per cent. The greater part of my mail at the present time relates to the expression of views on such subjects as taxation, labor laws, appropriations, etc. There has been an astounding number of letters protesting the proposed cuts in appropriations for the various agencies of government.

These letters usuall start out with the ramark that the writer is in favor of government ecenomy "but"—and then proceed to say why the writer's favorite agency should not have it's appropriation cut. It would appear that a good many people are in favor of ecenomy except where it affects something in which they are particularly interested.

GRASS VALLEY: The ashes of Sidney B. Wood who died in New York, January 27th, will be brought to Smartville, Yuba County, and deposited in the Blue Point gravel mine. This information was contained in a letter to friends here from Sidney B. The letter stated that the wishes of the late mining engineer would be carried out. Asa Fippin of Rough and Ready, long time friend of Wood St., was designated to inter the ashes in a huge excavation in the gravel made by Wood when he was operating the property.
